Peoples Health Takes Gretna Seniors to New Orleans Museum of Art
Gretna Senior Center Patrons Enjoy Free Museum Tour

METAIRIE, LA. – In celebration of the arts, Peoples Health took members of the Gretna Senior Center on a tour of the New Orleans Museum of Art (NOMA) on Tuesday, November 15. Thirty participants were provided with transportation to and from NOMA as well as lunch at the museum’s café, accompanied by Peoples Health staffers.

This event is part of a long-standing effort by Peoples Health to encourage seniors to have active lifestyles and greater cultural appreciation in and out of their daily routine. Peoples Health also works to support organizations that provide seniors with an opportunity to embrace new ideas and get out into the community.

“It’s important to provide senior citizens with opportunities to get out and interact with one another,” said Tiffany Tandecki, Assistant Director of Marketing for Peoples Health. “Incorporating that communal element with the mental stimulation of the museum exhibits is a perfect way to integrate the two.”

Peoples Health is proud to support the museum’s Odyssey Ball, which this year will celebrate the museum’s 100 year anniversary.

Peoples Health looks forward to continuing to partner with community associations to benefit seniors across the New Orleans metropolitan area.
