Peoples Health Brings Local Seniors to Visit WWOZ and the New Orleans Jazz National Historic Park
Pontchartrain Park Senior Center Patrons Tour the Radio Station and Park

METAIRIE, LA. – In celebration of music and its role in our everyday lives, Peoples Health took members of the Pontchartrain Park Senior Center on a tour of the WWOZ radio station and the New Orleans Jazz National Historic Park on Thursday, December 1. Twenty participants were provided with tour transportation as well as lunch at Galvez restaurant.

“The city of New Orleans has a beautiful and historic tie to music,” said Tiffany Tandecki, Assistant Director of Marketing for Peoples Health. “We wanted to provide an opportunity for our senior citizens to get together and experience that joy firsthand.”

Seniors who were interested in participating in the tour were asked to write a brief essay on their favorite musician, band or musical experience. Peoples Health selected the top 20 entries to invite on the tour. An additional opportunity will be offered to another group in 2012.

This event is part of a long-standing effort by Peoples Health to encourage seniors to have active lifestyles and greater cultural appreciation in and out of their daily routine. Peoples Health works to support organizations that provide seniors with an opportunity to embrace new ideas and get out into the community.

Peoples Health looks forward to continuing to partner with community associations to benefit seniors across the New Orleans metropolitan area.
